Literacy in the Classroom

Literacy in Each Center Area
The IQ (Instructional Quality) Guide for the Learning Environment for the Georgia’s Pre-K Program suggests adding language and literacy items and writing supplies to each center area of the classroom. By enhancing the learning centers with literacy materials, the teachers can engage with the children to increase their phonological awareness, phonemic awareness, alphabetic knowledge and vocabulary development.

Below you will find suggested items to include in the classroom display, center areas, and the outdoor classroom environment. This list is not exhaustive. It was developed to share ideas and give you, the classroom teachers, a “jump start” with literacy development in the Pre-K class.

Language and Literacy Center
Remember to include a variety of book types such as fantasy, fairy tales, non-fiction, wordless, repetitive, American sign language, Braille, informational, stories about people that reflect different cultures, ages, and abilities, Picture Dictionary, etc. in your library area and in other center areas of the classroom. Also remember to include books that reflect the current topic or interest.

- Display Book Jackets
- Flannel Board with Stories/Pieces
- Big Books
- Magnetic Stories
- Foam Letters (various sizes)

Classroom Display

Although this is not a specific learning center, the classroom display reflects many literacy experiences for children. Consider the following when you add to your classroom display.

- Adding Dictation to Children’s creations
- Hanging Class Made Charts and Graphs
- Recipe Charts
- Language Experience Charts
- Children’s Writings and Drawings
- Words in Various Languages
- American Sign Language Poster
- Braille Poster
- A Neighborhood Bulletin Board displayed at the children’s eye level (this could include flyers, brochures, stationary, etc. from local businesses)
- Class Rules (try to keep these to a minimum and remember to add corresponding pictures)

Additional Ideas

Labeling bins and shelves for children with pictures and words helps children recognize that print has meaning. Label familiar items in your classroom (door, sink, etc.) and you will soon start to see the children writing and reading these words.

Be sure to include the children’s names and the alphabet in the classroom. Children need to see models when they are learning to write. It works best if you display these at children’s eye level and/or in a center.

Include items in your large group/circle time that encourage literacy development. Things like the daily menu, names of who is present, daily news, etc. are meaningful in a child’s day and will be items the children can begin to read quickly. This can be done with sentence strips, chart paper, a write on – wipe off board, a chalkboard, a bulletin board on the children’s eye level, a smart board, etc. A class message board can be a place for children to display important messages too (lost blanket). Remember to use pictures along with words whenever possible.

Having materials for children to act out familiar nursery rhymes is a wonderful large or small group literacy activity. Some suggestions include a candle and candlestick for “Jack Be Nimble,” a small stool, a plastic spider, and a bowl for “Little Miss Muffet,” or a metal pail for “Jack and Jill.”

A photo album can be added to each center area to document the children engaging with the materials. As the school year progresses, the children will expand their interactions with the materials and each other.

Add a literacy container/portable writing center to each center. Include writing utensils, paper, clipboards, books that relate to a specific center area, etc.

We all know that children can be rough on books, especially those favorites. Think about setting up a Book Hospital in the classroom. The children can use erasers, scotch tape, book tape, etc. to repair class books. Baby wipes could be used to clean the covers of books. Be sure to label crates or trays so the children know which books need repairing and which have been repaired.

Please refer to the Georgia Early Learning and Development Standard Communication, Language, and Literacy (CLL) section for specific performance indicators as well as the Instructional Quality Guides (IQ Guides) for specific requirements for your Pre-K classroom.
